Bring Season's Happiness

Auxiliary Juniors On Busy Christmas Agenda

Junior Auxiliary of the Little Company of Mary Hospital begins its series of Christmas activities today. To raise money for their holiday charity projects the girls are at the hospital selling green and red carnations. Throughout the month of December these auxiliary members, all students from area high schools, are selling stuffed dolls, which they have made during the past few months.

On Dec. 19, caroling has been planned for the Little Company of Mary hospital patients as well as the patients at the Earlwood Convalescent home.

In the true spirit of the season, auxiliary members are collecting canned goods to fill baskets to be distributed to needy families during the holidays. On Saturday, Dec. 21, carrying gifts and refreshments the juniors will visit an orphanage where they will sing traditional Christmas carols for the youngsters, tell the Christmas story, present the children with gifts and provide them with holiday refreshments.

Building Firm to Sponsor Benefit Events for Clubs

Mutual benefit luncheon programs where proceeds will go to a charitable organization and members of the attending women's clubs can get professional ideas on elegant decor in homes, is the essence of the plan of Checkfield Construction Co., according to Dean Royce, general sales manager.

Royce added that the luncheons will be held in the recreation room of the Merit Carson own-your-own apartment home development at Maple and Carson Sts. in the Torrance area.

"Purpose of these meetings," Royce explained, "is to provide members of the various local women's clubs with a first-hand view of the exciting decor possibilities in the modern home, while contributing simultaneously to a worthwhile cause."

Leading the women through the tour of the elegant apartment homes project will be John Barraclough, well-known Southern California decorator. Barraclough and club members will inspect model apartment homes.

In addition, a G.E. portable television set will be awarded at each luncheon. Proceeds will go to the women's organization's favorite charity. Arrangements can be made by contacting Dean Royce at the Checkfield Construction Co., 1277 Redondo Beach Blvd. in Gardena.

Ann Landers

I phoned the girl's mother and she supported her daughter. Her attitude was "She has to get it out of her system." What should the school's position be?—FRUSTRATED.

Dear Frustrated: When 11, 12- and 13-year-olds come to school looking like chorus girls they should be told to go home and wash their faces and comb their hair—and not come back until they look their age.

A school whose standards are set by the kookiest mother in town isn't worth much.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 24 years old and I've loved Judy ever since she was a freckle-faced kid in knee socks. She and I grew up on the same block and there was never anyone else for me. When I went into the service Judy promised to wait for me. I wasn't gone more than six months when I received a letter from my mother telling me Judy had run off and married a fellow nobody ever thought was much good.

Eight months later when I got home Judy's marriage was already on the rocks. The guy she married had got himself into serious trouble with the law. He skipped town in the middle of the night owing everybody.

Judy wants to marry me now but I can't get over thinking of her as somebody else's wife. My folks say I should have nothing to do with her. She swears she'll be true. What do you think?

Dear Rex: If you are comfortable dating this girl—assuming of course that she is no longer married—then continue to do so. But unless you are capable of complete forgiveness don't consider marriage. The shadows of the past are sure to become life-size monsters unless they are destroyed.

Ann Landers', frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Rex" (329¢), is now available at your book store. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.
